Questions for Thought and Discussion

- Who revolutionized the teaching of anatomy in the sixteenth century?
- Who is credited with discovering the circulation of the blood?
- What are the three anatomical planes of the body?
- Where does longitudinal growth occur in a long bone?
- Where is the cancellous bone situated in a long bone?
- What is Wolff’s Law?
- Name the three types of cartilage.
- What are the two parts of an intervertebral disc?
- Which is the largest organ in the body and what are its functions?
- What is the function of the pulmonary artery?
- What is angina pectoris and where does it occur?
- What is the function of the ligaments of Cooper in the female breast?
- What does Penfield’s homonunculus represent?
- How is the CSF produced and what is its function?
- What is the Circle of Willis and what use is it?
- What is the role of the autonomic nervous system?
- What is the optic disc? How can one inspect it?
- Discuss the functions of the paranasal sinuses.
- What is the function of the pharyngotympanic tube?
- Where is bile made and where is it stored?
- Describe the two main methods of gripping objects in the hand.
- How does the medial longitudinal arch of the foot work?

Other books by Leslie Klenerman

The Human Foot (Springer 2006)

Further Reading

Further reading can be found at the back of Human Anatomy: A Very Short Introduction