Law Textbooks 2015

As the legal education landscape changes it brings with it exciting new challenges and opportunities. As publishers, we are continually innovating; positioning ourselves to meet those challenges with you, head on.

This booklet lists our most recent publishing, for more information on these titles please visit the website where you’ll find comprehensive information on all the titles listed, as well as our full backlist of titles. www.oxfordtextbooks.co.uk/law

More and more students and lecturers are accessing our textbooks digitally via our online platform, Law Trove. Students are experiencing the breadth of content that has made OUP the UK’s number one provider of legal educational materials. The central pages tell you how to find out more about Law Trove.

Unlike other publishers, OUP can still boast teams of subject specialists working specifically on legal undergraduate materials – we focus our knowledge and experience on producing resources of the highest quality, and delivering a comprehensive and sincere service to support your teaching.

We pride ourselves on establishing and maintaining strong relationships, and look forward to working with you.

SWITCHED-ON LEARNING

Most of our textbooks publish with accompanying online resources. The resources are closely linked to the textbook, written by (or in conjunction with) the author.

Designed to enhance the learning experience, add value, and save you time, these materials enable students to:

- get added value from their textbook;
- continue learning outside of timetabled sessions;
- stay updated and interact with the subject.

Visit www.oxfordtextbooks.co.uk/orc/law or ask your campus representative to show you the resources. Contact us directly with any questions: orc.help@oup.com.

Our promise to you

Oxford University Press has a team of dedicated campus sales representatives who visit institutions across Europe. The team are committed to providing a high level of service and support from ensuring your conversations with them are constructive and helpful; to making sure the books your students need are delivered to the bookshops on time.

We don’t believe you’ll receive a better level of ongoing support from any other publisher.

Oxford University Press is the only publisher to offer a suite of legal resources that will take a student through their entire educational journey, and beyond. Our extensive selection of textbooks, casebooks, statute books, revision guides and online resources offers an unmatched breadth and depth of learning materials.

Your campus representative will work with you to establish your requirements and provide relevant materials in the correct formats; packaging them to offer the best value for your students or your law school.

Contact your campus representative at any time using the details opposite, or go online to find out which person calls at your institution:

Oxford University Press is committed to supporting legal education through an extensive programme of goodwill initiatives. A continuing investment into law specific initiatives – from subject prizes, to nationwide competitions and awards – enables us to give something back to the academic community and students.

Reward your most deserving students with the Oxford University Press Law Prize; over £17,000 is given back to students throughout Europe each year through the law prize.

The Law Teacher of the Year Award is the only national award which recognises top teaching talent. Candidates go through a rigorous judging process to win the £3,000 prize money.

With an original moot problem for every round, and a prize money pot of over £2,000, more than 70 law schools and 140 law students enter the OUP and BPP National Mooting Competition each year.

Our law student panellists from a diverse selection of institutions make a real difference to our law publishing; their comments feed into live projects and development work.

To find out more about our programme of goodwill initiatives, please contact clare.weaver@oup.com or visit the website: www.oxfordtextbooks.co.uk/law/goodwill
