Britannia Romana : or Roman antiquities in Britain, viz. coins, camps, and publick roads. Being a full Account and Explanation of the Roman Coins found in Britain at different Places and divers Times, all of which put together making very near a compleat Series, from Julius Caesar down to Valentinian III. With particular Observations on those Coins that bear relation to the Affairs of Britain. Also a particular Delineation of all the several Sorts of Roman Roads, and the Places where the Romans had their Camps and Stations, during the Time of their Abode here in Britain for the Space of 500 Years. To which is prefix'd a Map of the said Roads and Camps in the several Counties in Britain. Also a large Preface, shewing the Usefulness of ancient Coins and Medals, in relation to History, Poetry, Sculpture, Painting, and Architecture: The Way to know genuine from counterfeit Coins: The Reason of the Romans burying so much Coin here in Britain: And the Time when they did so. Also the Manner of making their several Sorts of Roads and Camps here. To which is added (by way of Digression) a short Account of the Antiquities of Oxford, in relation both to the University and City, shewing that it was a very considerable Place even in the Time of the Romans. Also a List of those Roman Emperors and Generals that came in Person, or were sent hither, and the several Conquests they made here. By John Pointer, M. A. Chaplain of Merton College in Oxford, and Rector of Slapton in Northampton-Shire / [Pointer, John,].-- Oxford : printed by Leon. Lichfield for Anth. Peisley, and are to be sold by J. Knapton, J. A vindication of those who take the oath of allegiance to his present Majestie from perjurie, injustice, and disloyalty, charged upon them by such as are against it : wherein it is evidently shewed that the common good of a nation is what is primarily and principally respected in an oath, and therefore when the oath is inconsistent with that, the persons who have taken it, are absolved from it ...

In a letter to a Non-Juror ... -- [Oxford]: printed [by Lichfield], in the year 1731.-- [2], 1ix, [1], 80p. ; 18.7cm. ; 8vo. pi1A-G\4 H[2],\2 A-K\4

Notes: Drophead title: The oath of allegiance vindicated, by Mr. Hearne, now a non-juror. The preface and responsibility for the unauthorised publication of Hearne's juvenile essay, written ca. 1700, is attributed by Hearne to John Bilstone. Hearne attributes the printing to Lichfield in Oxford, see his Remarks and collections, Oxford, 1921, v. 11, p. 477. The essay was addressed to Francis Cherry.

The concept of the present work was to produce an updated version of David Loggan's 'Oxonía illustrata' (1675), although it is unclear whether the impetus came from Oxford University or from the Welsh artist and engraver William Williams. The work seems to have been born in the early 1720s, and by the end of 1726 Williams had begun work and was ready to issue a prospectus.
