Table of Contents

Contents

Preface

Chapter 1: Communication: What and Why

Communication Defined

  Communication Is Symbolic Communication Is a Process
  Communication Is Irreversible
  Communication Is Relational, Not Individual

Models of Communication

  A Linear Model
  A Transactional Model

Contexts of Communication

  Intrapersonal Communication
  Dyadic/Interpersonal Communication
  Small Group Communication
  Organizational Communication
  Public Communication
  Mass Communication

Communication Competence

  Characteristics of Competent Communication
    There Is No “Ideal” Way to Communicate
    Competence Is Situational
    Competence Is Relational
Competence Can Be Learned

Characteristics of Competent Communicators

Competent Communicators Are Flexible
Competent Communicators Are Emphatic
Competent Communicators are Cognitively Complex
Competent Communicators Self-Monitor
Competent Communicators Are Committed

Communication Competence with Social Media

Choose the Best Medium
Be Careful What You Post
Be Considerate
    Respect Others’ Need for Undivided Attention
    Keep Your Tone Civil
    Respect Privacy Boundaries
    Be Mindful of Bystanders
Balance Mediated and Face-to-Face Time
Be Safe

Misconceptions About Communication

Communication Does Not Always Require Complete Understanding
Communication Will Not Solve All Problems
Communication Isn’t Always a Good Thing
Meanings Don’t Rest in Words
Communication Is Not Simple
More Communication Isn’t Always Better
Chapter 2: The Self, Perception, and Communication

The Self-Concept Defined

Self-Esteem Influences the Self-Concept

Significant Others Influence the Self-Concept

Culture Influences the Self-Concept

The Self-Concept Influences Communication with Others

The Self-Concept Influences Future Communication and Behavior

Perceiving Others Effectively

Sex and Gender Misconceptions

No One Is Exclusively Male or Female

The Terms “Sex” and “Gender” Are Not Identical

Masculine and Feminine Behaviors Are Part of a Continuum

Mistaken Attributions

We Often Judge Ourselves More Charitably Than We Judge Others

We Often Pay More Attention to Negative Impressions Than Positive Ones

We Tend to Assume That Others Are Similar to Us

Empathy and Perception Challenges

Dimensions of Empathy

Perception Checking

Identity Management

We Have Public and Private Selves

We Have Multiple Identities

Identity Management Is Collaborative

Identity Management May Be Conscious or Unconscious

People Differ in Their Degree of Identity Management
Chapter 3: Communication and Culture

Culture Defined

Cocultures and Communication

   Ethnicity and Race
   Region
   Sexual Orientation and Gender Identity
   Religion
   Physical Ability and Disability
   Age and Generation
   Socioeconomic Status

Cultural Values and Norms That Shape Communication

   Individualism and Collectivism
   High and Low Context
   Uncertainty Avoidance
   Power Distance
   Talk and Silence
   Competition and Cooperation

Developing Intercultural Communication Competence

   Spend Time with People from Different Backgrounds
   Develop a Tolerance for Ambiguity
   Keep an Open-Minded Attitude
Acquire and Use Culture-Specific Information Appropriately

Be Patient and Persistent

Chapter 4: Language

The Nature of Language

Language Is Symbolic

Meanings Are in People, Not in Words

Language Is Governed By Rules

Phonological Rules

Syntactic Rules

Semantic Rules

Pragmatic Rules

The Power of Language

Language Shapes Attitudes

Naming

Status

Sexism and Racism

Language Reflects Attitudes

Power

Affiliation

Responsibility

Troublesome Language

Misunderstandings

Equivocal Misunderstandings

Relative Words
Slang and Jargon

Disruptive Language
  Confusing Facts and Opinions
  Confusing Facts and Inferences
  Emotive Language

Evasive Language
  Euphemisms
  Equivocation

Gender and Language
  Content
  Reasons for Communicating
  Conversational Style
  Occupation and Gender Roles
  Biological Factors
  Social Norms
  Transcending Gender Boundaries

Chapter 5: Listening

Misconceptions about Listening
  Hearing and Listening Are Not the Same Thing
  Listening Is Not a Natural Process
  All Listeners Do Not Receive the Same Message

Challenges to Effective Listening
  Faulty Listening Behaviors
  Reasons for Poor Listening
  Message Overload
Rapid Thought
Psychological Noise
Physical Noise
Hearing Problems
Faulty Assumptions
Perceived Advantages of Talking
Cultural Differences
Media Influences

Types of Listening

Task-Oriented Listening
- Extract Key Ideas
- Ask Questions
- Paraphrase
- Take Notes

Relational Listening
- Allow Enough Time
- Listen for Unexpressed Thoughts and Feelings
- Encourage Further Comments

Analytical Listening
- Listen for Information before Evaluating
- Separate the Message from the Speaker
- Search for Value

Critical Listening
- Examine the Speaker’s Evidence and Reasoning
- Evaluate the Speaker’s Credibility
Assess Emotional Appeals

Listening and Social Support
  Social Support Online
  Gender and Social Support
  When and How to Help

Chapter 6: Nonverbal Communication

Characteristics of Nonverbal Communication
  Nonverbal Behavior has Communicative Value
  Nonverbal Behavior Is Primarily Relational
  Nonverbal Behavior Is Ambiguous
  Nonverbal Communication Is Essential

Functions of Nonverbal Behavior
  Repeating
  Substituting
  Complementing
  Regulating
  Contradicting
  Deceiving

Types of Nonverbal Communication
  Body Movements
    Posture
    Gestures
  Face
  Eyes
Voce
Appearance
   Physical Attractiveness
   Clothing
Touch
Space
   Distance
   Territory
Environment
Time

Influences on Nonverbal Communication
   Culture
   Gender

Nonverbal Communication Competence
   Tune Out Words
   Use Perception Checking
   Pay Attention to Your Own Nonverbal Behavior

Chapter 7: Communicating in Interpersonal Relationships

The Nature of Interpersonal Communication
   Content and Relational Messages
      Affinity
      Respect
      Immediacy
      Control
Metacommunication

Self-Disclosure

Models of Self-Disclosure

Social Penetration Model

The Johari Window

Questions to Ask Before Self-Disclosing

Is the Other Person Important to You?

Is the Risk of Disclosing Reasonable?

Are the Amount and Type of Disclosure Appropriate?

Is the Disclosure Relevant to the Situation at Hand?

Is the Disclosure Reciprocated?

Will the Effect be Constructive?

Is the Self-Disclosure Clear and Understandable?

Mediated Versus Face-to-Face Communication

Communication Climates in Interpersonal Relationships

Confirming and Disconfirming Messages

Recognition

Acknowledgement

Endorsement

Relational Spirals

Defensive and Supportive Behaviors

Evaluation vs. Description

Control vs. Problem Orientation

Strategy vs. Spontaneity

Neutrality vs. Empathy
Superiority vs. Equality
Certainty vs. Provisionalism

Chapter 8: Communicating With Friends and Family

How We Choose Friendships

Similarity
Complementarity
Mutual Liking
Rewards

Types of Friendships

Short-Term vs. Long-Term
Low Disclosure vs. High Disclosure
Doing-Oriented vs. Being-Oriented
Low Obligation vs. High Obligation
Same Sex vs. Other Sex
In-Person vs. Mediated

Successful Communication in Friendships

Be a Good Listener
Give Advice Sparingly
Share Feelings Respectfully
Apologize and Forgive
Be Validating and Appreciative
Stay True Through Hard Times
Be Trustworthy and Loyal
Give and Take Equally
Types of Family Relationships

Parents and Children

Communication Patterns

Parenting Styles

Siblings

Supportive

Longing

Competitive

Apathetic

Hostile

Grandparents and Grandchildren

Successful Communication in Family Relationships

Share Family Stories

Listen to Each Other

Negotiate Privacy Rules

Coach Conflict Management

Go Heavy on Confirming Messages

Have Fun

Chapter 9: Communicating With Romantic Partners

The Nature of Intimacy

Male and Female Intimacy Styles

Love Languages

Affirming Words

Quality Time
Acts of Service

Gifts

Physical Touch

Communicating in Romantic Relationships

A Developmental Perspective

Initiating

Experimenting

Intensifying

Integrating

Bonding

Differentiating

Circumscribing

Stagnating

Avoiding

Terminating

A Dialectical Perspective

Connection vs. Autonomy

Openness vs. Privacy

Predictability vs. Novelty

Strategies for Managing Dialectical Tensions

Denial

Disorientation

Selection

Alternation

Polarization
Segmentation
Moderation
Reframing
Reaffirmation

Deception in Romantic Relationships
Altruistic Lies
Evasions
Self-Serving Lies

Managing Interpersonal Conflict
Styles of Expressing Conflict
Nonassertion
Direct Aggression
Passive Aggression
Indirect Communication
Assertion

Abusive Relationships
Psychologically Abusive Relationships
Physically Abusive Relationships

Applying Win-Win Problem Solving
Step 1: Identify Your Problem and Unmet Needs
Step 2: Make a Date
Step 3: Describe Your Problem and Needs
Step 4: Check Your Partner’s Understanding
Step 5: Solicit Your Partner’s Needs
Step 6: Check Your Understanding of Your Partner’s Needs
Step 7: Negotiate a Solution
Step 8: Follow-Up on the Solution

Chapter 10: Communicating for Career Success

Strategies for Finding a Job

Cultivating Personal Networks

View Everyone as a Networking Prospect
Seek Referrals
Show Appreciation
Engage in Online Networking
Monitor Your Online Identity

Conducting Informational Interviews

Make Your First Contact in Writing
Prepare Questions Ahead of Time
Be Sure to Follow-Up

Strategies for Getting Hired

Applying for a Job

Create a Polished Résumé
Create a Cover Letter
Follow Application Instructions
Keep Organized Records for Your Communications

Preparing for the Selection Interview

Do Your Research
Prepare for Likely Questions
Dress for Success
Take Copies of Your Résumé and Portfolio
Know When and Where to Go

Reframe Your Anxiety as Enthusiasm

During the Interview

Mind Your Manners

Follow the Interviewer’s Lead

Keep Your Answers Succinct and Specific

Describe Relevant Challenges, Actions, and Results

Ask Good Questions of Your Own

Post-Interview Follow-Up

Phone and Video Interviews

Create a Professional Identity

Consider How You Look and Sound

Check Every Detail in Advance

Ensure You Have the Right Time for the Interview

Look at the Camera, Not the Screen

Conduct a Dress Rehearsal

Interviewing and the Law

Strategies for Communicating on the Job

Communicating with Followers, Leaders, and Peers

Communicating with Followers

Communicating with Leaders

Communicating with Peers

Communicating in a Professional Manner

Be Sensitive to Cultural and Co-Cultural Differences

Don’t Overshare
Communicate in a Principled Manner
Exceed Expectations
Keep Your Cool
Be E-Savvy
Acknowledge Gaffes and Move On

Working with a Difficult Boss
Adapt to Your Boss
Seek Advice from Others
Try to Clarify and Improve the Situation
Manage Your Expectations
Keep a Professional Demeanor
Prepare to Move On

Exiting Graciously

Leadership, Followership, and Power
Approaches to Leadership
Becoming a Leader
The Importance of Followers
Power in the Workplace
Legitimate Power
Expert Power
Connection Power
Reward and Coercive Power
Referent Power

Chapter 11: Communicating in Groups and Teams
The Nature of Groups and Teams

What a Group Is

Interaction

Interdependence

Time

Size

Group and Individual Goals

How a Group Becomes a Team

Characteristics of Groups

Rules and Norms

Patterns of Interaction

Roles

Seek the Optimal Ratio of Task and Social Roles

Look for Unfilled Roles

Avoid Duplicating Roles

Avoid Role Fixation

Avoid Dysfunctional Roles

Problem Solving in Groups

Advantages of Group Problem Solving

Resources

Accuracy

Commitment

Diversity

When to Use Groups for Problem Solving

Developmental Stages in Group Problem Solving
Orientation Stage
Conflict Stage
Emergence Stage
Reinforcement Stage

Group Problem-Solving Strategies and Formats

Problem-Solving Formats
- Breakout Group
- Problem Census Group
- Focus Group
- Panel Discussion
- Symposium
- Forum
- Dialogue

Solving Problems in Virtual Groups

A Structured Problem-Solving Approach
- Identify the Problem
- Analyze the Problem
- Develop Creative Solutions
- Evaluate the Solutions
- Implement the Plan
- Follow-Up on the Solution

Decision-Making Methods
- Consensus
- Majority Control
- Expert Opinion
Minority Control
Authority Rule

Making the Most of Group Discussion
  Build Cohesiveness
  Encourage Equal Participation
  Avoid Information Underload and Overload
  Avoid Pressure to Conform
  Make the Most of Diversity

Chapter 12: Preparing Speeches
Analyzing Your Speaking Situation
  The Audience
  The Occasion

Planning Your Speech
  Choose Your Topic
  Define Your Purpose
  Write a Purpose Statement
  State Your Thesis
  Gather Information

Structuring Your Speech
  Outlines
  Speaking Notes
  Organizational Patterns
    Time
    Space
Topic
Problem-Solution
Cause-Effect
Monroe’s Motivated Sequence

Using Introductions, Conclusions, and Transitions

The Introduction
Capture Attention
Preview the Main Points
Set the Mood and Tone of Your Speech
Demonstrate the Importance of Your Topic to Your Audience
Establish Credibility

The Conclusion

Transitions

Using Supporting Material

Types of Support
Definitions
Examples
Statistics
Analogies/Comparison-Contrast
Anecdotes
Quotation/Testimony

Styles of Support

Chapter 13: Presenting Speeches

Managing Speech Anxiety
Helpful and Unhelpful Speech Anxiety

Sources of Unhelpful Speech Anxiety

- Previous Negative Experience
- Irrational Thinking

How to Overcome Unhelpful Speech Anxiety

Choosing a Type of Delivery

- Extemporaneous
- Impromptu
- Manuscript
- Memorized

Using Visual Aids

Types of Visual Aids

- Objects and Models
- Diagrams
- Word and Number Charts
- Pie Charts
- Bar and Column Charts
- Line Charts

Media for Presenting Visual Aids

- Chalkboards, Whiteboards, and Polymer Marking Surfaces
- Flip Pads and Poster Board
- Handouts
- Projectors
- Other Electronic Media

Rules for Using Visual Aids
Simplicity
Size
Attractiveness
Appropriateness
Reliability

Presentation Software

Practicing the Speech

Visual Aspects of Delivery

Appearance
Movement
Posture
Facial Expression
Eye Contact

Auditory Aspects of Delivery

Volume
Rate
Pitch
Articulation

Online/Virtual Delivery

Chapter 14: Speaking to Inform, Persuade, and Entertain

Types of Speeches

Informative Speeches

An Informative Topic Tends to Be Noncontroversial

The Informative Speaker Does Not Intend to Change Audience Attitudes
Persuasive Speeches

Persuasion Is Usually Incremental

Persuasion Can Be Ethical

Speeches to Entertain

Techniques of Informative Speaking

Define a Specific Informative Purpose

Make it Easy for the Audience to Listen

Limit the Amount of Information You Present

Transition from Familiar to Newer Information

Transition from Simple to More Complex Information

Use Clear, Simple Language

Emphasize Important Points

Repetition

Signposts

Generate Audience Involvement

Use Audience Participation

Have a Question-and-Answer Period

Techniques of Persuasive Speaking

Set a Specific Persuasive Purpose

Structure Your Speech Strategically

Describe the Problem

Describe the Solution

Describe the Desired Audience Response

Use Monroe’s Motivated Sequence

Structure Your Argument Carefully
Claims and Subclaims
Evidence
The Toulmin Model
Avoid Fallacies
Ad Hominem
Reductio Ad Absurdum
Either-Or
Post Hoc Ergo Propter Hoc
Argumentum Ad Verecundiam
Argumentum Ad Populum
Adapt to Your Specific Audience
Establish Common Ground and Credibility

Techniques of Speaking to Entertain

Follow the Rules of Humor

Levity
Originality
Appropriateness

Use the Most Effective Type of Humor

Humorous Description
Exaggeration
Incongruity
Word Play
Satire

Appendix A: Informative Speech
Appendix B: Persuasive Speech
Appendix C: Speech to Entertain